mater Cars for Cancer

The Future of Cancer Treatment is Here—And You Can Help Power It!

Imagine a world where cancer doesn't mean fear, but fight. Where the body's own immune system becomes its most powerful weapon. At Mater Research, that future is being shaped right now by Professor Kristen Radford, who has dedicated the past 21 years of her career to advancing cancer immunotherapy.

Professor Radford and her team are developing a revolutionary cancer vaccine that trains the immune system to recognise and destroy cancer cells—fast, accurately, and without harming healthy tissue.

This isn't science fiction. It's science in action.

The vaccine targets a rare immune cell called cDC1—nature's own cancer-fighting specialist. Once activated, it works like a guided missile: identifying the threat, raising the alarm, and launching a targeted immune response.

This breakthrough has the potential to treat a wide range of cancers, including breast, ovarian, prostate, bladder, blood cancers, and melanoma. It could replace outdated treatments with smarter, faster, more effective options—giving patients more time, hope, and a real chance at life.

Professor Kristen Radford, Principal Research Fellow at Mater Research.

"You never stop dreaming and imagining a cure, but this vaccine is a huge step on the journey to making cancer a manageable disease," Professor Radford says.

But research like this doesn't happen on its own. It takes years of dedication, relentless curiosity, and the support of people who believe in a better future.

Your support helps make this happen.

Every Cars for Cancer ticket you buy helps researchers, like Professor Radford, accelerate the journey from lab to life-saving treatment. It brings us closer to a world where cancer is no longer a life sentence—but a disease we can manage, treat, and one day, defeat.

The cure for cancer won't come from hope alone. It will come from research—and from people like you who make it possible.

Thank you for your support.

The need for a cure is one we cannot ignore—cancer is responsible for around three of every 10 deaths in Australia.*
